A Whale in New York Bay.

A large sperm whale disporting himself among the blocks of ice in the bay attracted great crowds at the Battery, New York, on the 11th inst. His whaleship was seen just off the Pennsylvania railroad pier at Jersey City. He looked like the submarine boat Destroyer, his curved back just cutting the surface of the water. He appeared to be about thirty-five feet long and as large around as a hogshead. At times he would disappear below the surface and reappear again at one hundred feet distant.

The news received that the Guion line's transatlantic service has been suspended and its pier in New York rented to the White Star line recalls the fact that John Williams and Stephen B. Guion founded the Old Black Star line of sailing ships between New York and Liverpool before the war. The ships were famous in their day. For instance, the Thornton. in command of Captain Wells, made the voyage between the two ports at one time in twelve days and eight hours. The names of these ships were the Adelaide, Bridgewater, John Bright, Resolute, Belle Wood, Australia, Uni-Cultivator, Chancellor, North American and Constitution. These ships were all large for those days, averaging about 2500 tons each. These sailing ships were discontinued as packets in 1865, and what is called the Guion line was established therefrom .-
